Full-length papers, case reports, rapid communications, and review articles are accepted for consideration by the Editorial Board with the understanding that no substantial part of the paper has been or will be published elsewhere. Authors are responsible for conforming to the guidelines contained in this Information for Authors. The Editorial Board reserves the right to make literary corrections in the interest of clarity, consistency, and readability. The Editor's decision is final.

Full-length papers should include the following sections: Abstract, Introduction, Materials and Methods, Results, Discussion, Acknowledgments, and References.

Case reports should not exceed 10 typed pages of text and 6 pages of tables and figures.

Rapid communications should be limited to 6 typed pages, including references, and 4 pages of tables or figures. Rapid Communications report only important new observations of sufficient significance and urgency to warrant rapid publication. In Rapid Communications, sections may be combined (eg, Introduction, Methods [or Patients] Results, Discussion). Request for consideration as a Rapid Communication should be made in the author's cover letter upon submission. Such papers, if accepted, will appear in the next available issue.

Images in Hematology. Authors can submit for consideration an illustration (or, where appropriate, two or more related images) which is interesting, instructive and visually attractive, with a few lines of explanatory text and usually one or two contributors. The images (eg, a clinical photograph, radiology, cytology, histology, a laboratory test) should be submitted in a digital format online to ijh@jshem.or.jp. High-quality glossy prints, transparencies, or high-resolution (600 dpi for line art; 300 dpi for halftones or color images) digital files should be sent to the IJH Office on acceptance. Because of space constraints, there are usually no references in the 'Images' section. However, it is at the discretion of the Images Editor to accept one reference if it appears essential to the contribution in question.

Review articles are normally invited contributions, but suitable papers may be submitted for this purpose.

Abstracts should be no longer than 200 words.

Letters to the Editor are welcome and will be published if appropriate. Letters should be as short as possible (no more than 3 typewritten pages, including references).

Ethical Policy. When reporting research on human subjects, the work must comply with the principles of the Declaration of Helsinki (1964; <http://www.wma.net/e/policy/b3.htm>). Authors should indicate that ethical approval of the study was granted, and, where appropriate, that informed consent was given. The Editors reserve the right to reject a paper with questionable ethical justification.

The form of manuscripts should adhere precisely to the following specifications. Page 1 should contain the article title; author name(s); proposed running title, not exceeding 45 characters and spaces; proposed main category and subcategory (<http://www.jshem.or.jp/announce/category-list.pdf>) for contents-ordering purposes; proposed type of manuscript (review, original, case report, letter to the editor); name of the department and institution in which the work was done; name, address, telephone and fax numbers, and e-mail address of the author to whom communications regarding the manuscript and reprints should be directed.

Electronic Submission. Authors are invited to submit an entire manuscript as an attachment to an e-mail message sent to the Regional Editorial Office or the Editorial Office in Japan (IJH@jshem.or.jp). Authors may also send the text and images on a CD or a 3.5-inch disk to the Editorial Office. If a CD or disk is submitted, it should be accompanied by a hard-copy printout of the manuscript.

Tables, with titles, should be in typewritten form on separate sheets and cited in order in the text using Arabic numerals. Data presented in tables should generally not be duplicated in the text or figures. Tables should not be saved as image files.

Figures may be included in the published article at the expense of the author. The charge for a noncolor illustration is US $26.00; for a color image, the charge is US $663.00. Figures should be appropriately numbered using Arabic numerals and must be accompanied by legends on a separate sheet. Charts, graphs, or line drawings should be professionally drawn. Lettering and symbols should be clear and of such a size that they are legible after size reduction and of even density. Figures not properly prepared will be returned to the author for revision. Glossy figures should be supplied in duplicate. The back of each figure should indicate the figure's number, the orientation of the figure, and the lead author's name. Please note that if the manuscript is accepted, changing a figure from color to black and white may not be approved unless the black and white figure is as high in quality as the color figure.

References should be listed at the end of the article. When there are 6 or fewer authors, all should be listed; when 7 or more, only the first 3 should be listed, followed by et al. References should be numbered consecutively as they appear at their first mention in the text. Journal name abbreviations should conform to those used in Index Medicus, and inclusive page numbers should be given. Reference numbers in the text should be placed between square brackets. For the sake of brevity and readability, authors are encouraged to use only reference numbers (not names) whenever possible, when citing commonly used techniques and methods. References should comply with the format used in the American Medical Association Manual of Style. Examples:

1. Bhaskaram C, Reddy V. Cell-mediated immunity in iron- and vitamin-deficient children. Br Med J. 1979;3:522-535.
2. Metcalf D. The Hemopoietic Colony Stimulating Factors. Amsterdam: Elsevier Science Publishers; 1984.
3. Goldwasser E. Erythropoietin and differentiation. In: Cunningham D, Golwasser E, Watson J, Fox C, eds. Control of Cellular Division and Development. New York: Alan R. Liss; 1981;487-494.

Unpublished Data and Personal Communications. Do not cite unpublished data or personal communications in the reference section. This material should be noted in the text as follows: If unpublished data are from the authors of the paper, cite as (unpublished data). If unpublished data are from contributors other than authors of the paper, the citation should include initial(s) and last names of all contributors and year. For personal communications, give initial(s) and last name(s) of all contributors and the month and year that the communication occurred, and indicate whether the communication was written or oral.

An abbreviation in the text should be preceded by the full name which it represents, at its first appearance. Abbreviations of units should be as follows: s,  $\mu\text{m}$ ,  $\mu\text{g}$ ,  $\mu\text{L}$ , min, mm, mg, mL, mM, h, cm, g, dL, M, wk,  $\text{mm}^3$ , kg, L, mEq, Bq, c/kg, Gy, etc. Units of time should be written out in text, figure legends, and table footnotes and abbreviated only in tables. The metric system for weights and measurements, Celsius degrees for temperature, and the 24-hour clock are required.

Miscellaneous guidelines: Generic names should generally be used; if brand names are used, the initial letters should be capitalized.

On accepting a manuscript for publication, the Editorial Office should receive an electronic version of the manuscript along with 2 print copies of the final version, including all tables and figures. Please note the following publisher's requirements for electronic files.

1. TEXT. Files should be stored on a CD or a 3.5-inch diskette. All disks should be labeled with the lead author's name, the file name(s), and the software program and version used in the creation of the files. Text files should be in Microsoft Word, preferably saved to RICH TEXT FORMAT (RTF); a manuscript created in another word processing program must be saved to RTF. Please refrain from complex formatting; the publisher will style your document according to journal specifications. Symbols such as Greek letters, mathematical symbols or other special characters should be created in Symbol font. All files should be labeled with the lead author's last name.

2. ILLUSTRATIONS. High-quality print copies of all illustrations should accompany the final submission. If electronic versions of images are available, they should be saved in separate files; the preferred formats are TIFF or EPS. Journal quality reproduction will require grayscale and color images at resolutions yielding 300 dpi. Bitmapped line art should be submitted at resolutions yielding 600-1200 dpi.

Submission from Japan. For Full-length papers, Case Reports, unsolicited Reviews, and Rapid Communications, the author should pay ¥10000 to cover the cost of manuscript handling, by (1) accompanying ¥10000 in the form of check or money order, or (2) sending money by postal transfer. First author should be a member of the Japanese Society of Hematology (at the acceptance stage).

Page charges. Accepted manuscripts from Japan will be published subject to a fee of ¥6000 per printed page, excluding the costs of tables, figures, or literary correction by the English editor. Accepted manuscripts from outside Japan will be published subject to a fee of US $50.00 per printed page except for solicited material. On request in unusual circumstances, the Editor-in-Chief may waive some or all of the page charges.

Proofs. Authors will be provided proofs by the publisher and will be asked to proofread them for typesetting errors. Changes in or additions to the edited text will not be accepted at the proofing stage.

Reprints. 50 reprints of a printed article will be provided free of charge. Additional reprints must be ordered at the time of author proofs. (The publisher will send a form with the proofs, with required information and fees.)

All inquiries or correspondence of a general nature should be addressed to the Editorial Office.
